Dear Sir:

I bought a model 700 in October 1990.

About the middle of November, I was hunting in the rain and snow - then it turned cold. I shot a buck, when I walked up to finish it off, the gun would not discharge - so I ejected that shell. when closing the bolt, the gun discharged.

I brought the gun to the dealer. He checked the gun over and said the trigger had frozen up and when hunting in bad weather make sure to dry the rifle good at the end of the day.

Last week I called your company about a possible recall. I was told that it was not for my model rifle, but to send the rifle in to have it checked out.

Yours Truly,

Kenneth V. Provost
