

December 10, 1993

Dear Remington Arms:

I feel obligated to write you and let you know what kind of quality you are putting out on the market. After a morning of deer hunting on December 3, 1993, I released the safety on my 700 ZMM Mag rifle to double check to see if it was loaded. Without touching the trigger, the gun went off in my vehicle, endangering my partner and myself, not to mention the $300.00 of damages to my vehicle. (Enclosed are estimates on the repairs).

I do not want this rifle, even after the repairs. I would appreciate at your earliest possible time if you would contact me and discuss with me how you would like to rectify this problem. I have been a proud supporter of Remington Arms and have used them for the last twelve years. I feel certain that we can work this out. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jason Reed
