1/29/2008 I made an offer of either the bolt lock modification program for $20 plus shipping of $12 or a new rifle in exchange at a cost to the customer of $455 plus shipping of $12. 1/30/2008 He responded via e-mail and mentioned the a Remington rep told him it would be taken care of. I responded and offered to wave the charges for the bolt lock modification program (installing a new X-Mark Pro trigger system) but, the exchange would still cost the same. I sent another e-mail on 1/13/08 to let him know that I would be out of the office and to cc: Laura Watson on his reply fls. 2/14/08-we are replacing tpa at n/cgoodwill. Cust requesting to purchase the replacement at special pricing, agreed on 84013 per FLS. Sending to Big 5 in Logan, UT.lw

To whom it may concern C/O Remington,

I had a terrible incident 2 years ago with my rifle firing in front of my son and I in which I never went hunting since. Recently my son brought home a Remington catalog and we saw the new guns. We noticed then that my old gun is the same model you are still making.

We called Remington and told them about the horrible incident that happened to us and they informed us of the safety issue.

I understand you completely overhaul the mechanism with the safety program but this was an absolutely terrible incident and was almost tragic. I have never been able to put in a shell since because of the memories. In this situation, would there be a way to trade or replace for new 700?. I would even be willing to pay cost for a new rifle but I really have a bad memory of this near fatal hunting event.

Thanks,

The repair options would be the same except, since a rep told you it would be taken care of, we will offer to wave the fee for the bolt lock modification program. We will install the new X-Mark Pro trigger system, and return the rifle to you at no charge.

I just went out and got your rifle and repeated all the tests on it. The engagement is light and perhaps in different weather conditions that had some bearing on the incident. I still could not get the firing pin to follow down, or the rifle to fire on safety release, or the rifle to fire with slamming the bolt closed. Perhaps the lubrication you did worked through the system and dislodged something that caused the problem.

It would be the firing mechanism that would affect this, so I still recommend that you let us install the new X-mark Pro trigger mechanism in this rifle. We will have it test fired and inspected prior to returning it to you.

Fred,

Regarding the accidental discharge.....we were getting it to repeat EVERY time after it had happened. Just wondering what bearing this would have had on our two options? Just before we sent the gun in (after the rep had told us they would take care of it) we had really played with the mechanism to see what was going on. We heavily lubricated mechanism and played with the safety and trigger and got it to not discharge every time. There were four of us who were present when the gun discharge live when we were hunting and we were able to repeat this dryfire safety problem 100% of the time after happened until the day we sent it off as several people had seen the gun since then. Again my question is, what bearing does this have that you mentioned YOU could not repeat because all we did is lubricate and pull backwards on trigger and play with bolt? If it does not change our options, no big deal, but if it would have changed offer, please re-examine the gun and you will get it to discharge as was what happened when fired during hunting incident and as what was happening everytime (unloaded) until the time we sent off.

Thanks for your time in this matter. Have a good day and looking forward to your reply. Dewey

Dewey,

We have received your rifle and conducted a full examination. The repair number is 138446. Although we could not duplicate an accidental discharge we certainly want to be sure that you have confidence in your rifle. We offer two options:

We can install our new X-Mark Pro trigger system on your rifle – this will allow the rifle to be unloaded with the safety in either position. Also, this system has a positive blocker for both the sear and trigger – when you move the safety to the safe position the blocker pulls the trigger back under the sear to prevent any accidental firing when the safety is moved to the ready to fire position. You have a fine rifle and I would recommend that you take this option. This can be done under the bolt lock modification program currently being offered at a total cost of $32.00. That is $20 plus $12 shipping.

The second option would be to exchange the rifle for a new rifle – a Model 700 with the X-Mark Pro trigger system. This would give you a new rifle at a cost of $467.00. That is $455.00 plus the $12 shipping.

I called you daytime phone #: 435-752-0119 and left a message this morning. Please get back to me with your choice or to discuss this further. We apologize for the inconvenience that this incident caused, and we are certainly glad that there were no injuries. Feel free to contact me directly.

Fred (Laura),

Could you do the repair and let me purchase a 700cdlsf for the $455? I would like to keep the gun in the family but it really was a bad experience in which I would have a hard time with it again as detailed in the letter. When the safety was pushed forward the gun fired!!! We have never had anything that dramatic happen before. I practice gun safety but still think it was a startling experience. Have you had that happen before to a customer out in the field???? Thanks
