

try the design of the new safety force (on and off) to better prove the design, The only other thing left would then be to add the new head design the way we have it.

It is the opinion of the writer that this is a good way to go and we have full cooperation from Process Engineering. We should propose the design this way to the committee, show the new design lever and ask for approval to proceed in this manner.

JSM:ws
Firearms Research Division