

The trigger guard is attached to the stock with two screws and is recessed into the stock. The floor plate hinge is also recessed into the stock and is attached by one diagonal front mounted screw. A latch in the front of the trigger guard bow secures the floor plate up against the stock. The same screws that attach the trigger guard and floor plate hinge to the stock also secure the barreled action. (Photo #13) .

