how about wooden spacers
and/or tip stop

④ Blk Line Spacers
spacer will hold value

doesn't like w/o spacers
5- w/o
2- w

③ Fore-End Tip
2 w
5 w/o - looks like stock isn't finished

② 6 to glass - hi shows scratches
- easier to refinish

① hi glass - quality workmanship
- extra work at factory

① 6 want cheek piece shotgun shooter direct
4 want MC

⑦ Barrel Config

3 Slim barrel - lighter, as long as it is accurate
- wouldn't want to drop small bol - could damage it

4 Std. - in offhand shooting - rifle is steadier
- hangs better
- bench rest shooters use bull bol
- withstands heat better

⑥ Receiver Config

faceted - appeared thicker rounded - appears to have more metal

- chose this config
- doesn't like edge - bumps
- looked like more craftsmanship

⑤ Butt Pad Color red vs black black - good sense - personal pref

- good on black(ish) stocks

brn - blended in w/ stock

⑨ Follower Finish

- Plated - smoother feeding
- easier to see dirt
- matt finish looked rough
- better quality/workmanship

⑧ Metal Finish

Satin - (3) - looks

Polished (3)

Q - majority satin → quality D

K.C. - 2
7 members

② Respe Present

① Bolt Body Finish

3 ~~Block~~ - non-reflective

4 ~~Block~~ - black looks cheap

Sewer - holds retail value

- more ease in manu, → tolerances
- majority of firearms this way
- sign of good workmanship
- smoother action

(if black bolt → must advertise as good)

⑩ Grip Cap - metal grip cap

3 - with - extends pistol grip

- looks better, adds to appearance

- like option on car

- more craftsmanship

Kansas City Group 1 (5:50 -)

600 Guns - Collector

- ① 1 prefers st. w/o quick shot reason
→ MC - most attractive w/o cheekpiece
→ MC - absorbs recoil (w)
→ MC - directs recoil away from face
→ MC - too high, used to st.
→ MC - stock related to whether rifle is scoped or not scope → MC

- ② Satin vs. High Glass — easy to keep ~~High Glass~~ 2 Glass
Satin - high glass sits on rack not a hunting gun
- glass not best from hunter's standpoint
- like glass (show off)

- ③ fore end tip
w/o - looks more attractive uniform - tip is traditional
