why does my bolt action seem to get hung up on me when I try to chamber a round, right at the safety. I took it to a licensed remington dealer (gander mountain gunsmith) his response was it was a cheap riffle and it would not be as smooth as a model 700 which was his preference. I would like to know if there is actually something wrong (defect or user error). fired at firing range once, shot 15 rounds threw it sense purchased. would appreciate any help in this matter. I hope remington stands by their product unlike the place that sells your product and then says it is a cheap model.

I have a new 710 in 30-06. I love the way it shoots. It's given me great groups consistantly, and has a great feel when firing.
I am very unhappy with the feel of the bolt. It is extremely hard to drive the bolt forward. The final lock in of the bolt is extremely tight, and does not feel right.
Is this part of the 'new feel' of the redesigned bolt and self-lubricating action, or does this sound like a manufacturing defect? Is re-head spacing or buffing often required with new 710's?
I am desperately seeking a solution. This problem has discouraged me from firing or enjoying my 710. I do not trust the rifle for hunting because I'm afraid I will not be able to get a second shot off in time if required. Please help!

I have a new Remington 710, 30.06. The cartridges will not feed from the clip to the chamber. It can be the 1st or last cartridge. The bolt is extremely rough also. I have a 700 BDL 30.06 and a 722 in the .223 caliber and they are wonderful weapons. I have only fired 3 rounds through the new weapon. Can you help me?

Thank you, Ken Cahoon.

I bought my husband a 710 with scope bolt action rifle april of 2005 from Walmart in Athens, Georgia. He used it a few times last hunting season and missed a couple of really nice deers because after the first shot the gun would jam with him. This year he had it out to sight it in. Still again after the first shot the gun would jam before making the second shot. What is the problem with this rifle? Why is it jamming every second shot? Walmart will not make your rifle that they sold to me good. They said that there would have to be a defect. What do they call a defect? The rifle can not be used for deer hunting, if you need to take a second shot. Can you help me with this problem? thanks kathy

I purchased a model 710 243 caliber for my son 2 days ago (birthday) We planned on sighting it this Saturday. I accidentally dry fired it once. Now, its locked up. The bolt or the safety switch won't move. Am I missing something? Do I need to return this to Remington? This was the first time the trigger was pulled. It's never had a bullet in it yet! I'd never guess this product to be so delicate. Please help. Thanks.

Hi,
I just recently bought a model 710 30-06 from a local sportsman show. When I got home I cleaned it up and oiled it down to take it out and try it. When I put the bolt back in it felt like it grabbed the inside of the chamber? It is also loose. Is the normal? Is there something I have to tighten to keep it level. I assumed it would be a nice and tight action. Let me know when you can and thanks!
