Good to talk to you this morning – you will have past performance slide shortly. Other systems we can use for pics is m24 and m24c– army is going to spend 3.2mm – 10mm to upgrade existing m24s to 300 wm with new stock, etc. I attached some documentation on m24 and m24e if you can use pics from that as needed. I want an even distro in the pics of new sniper weapons, existing sniper weapons, assault rifles, and acr when it is ready.

This is where the Military version stands right now. Note, we'll have some photos from the Texas shoot tomorrow and we'll update some of the photography (there is currently too much target and LE in the headers and cover).

Looking for your help to determine what is important for the Military world, and what we can add to make it more meaningful for your efforts.

I'll call you Thursday morning.

Eric
