Brian,

The first eight guns are waiting outside the gallery to be shot on 2nd shift. Assuming none fall out there, we will pack them and scan them to our warehouse tomorrow. The remaining 9 guns are being function tested and targeted in the test lab. As soon as they get 9 done that pass we will pack them and send them along. I will send you an update on all the guns again tomorrow.

Andy

Andy,

You mentioned that these should ship this week. Please provide and update as to the exact day these are expected to ship as we are getting down to crunch time on some of these, and may need to make other arrangements if they are not going to be available. Please see Linda's note below concerning this.

Thanks,

Brian,

Per our last conversation, you stated that some of the Model Seven CDL 17 Rem Fireballs may have passed T&E. Can you please update us? Eddie and I are talking with these guys on a regular basis and are constantly asked about when they will receive their rifles. Additionally, we have some varmint shoots coming up in May/June and if these rifles are available, the writers can use them instead of our department pulling additional rifles out of the warehouse.

I would ask that as the guns become available, please have partial shipments sent rather than waiting on shipping the entire order. Eddie and I can handpick the writers that receive these first rifles.

If you believe that there is going to be significant delay still with the Model Seven, we should look at changing the writers' gift to one of the Model 700 offerings.

Please let me know.

Thanks,
Linda
