Family awarded $165,000 in rifle suit

By Barbara Clauser

The News-Leader

A federal court jury awarded $165,000 Friday to a Buffalo couple for injuries the wife received when she was shot by an allegedly defective rifle in November 1982.

In a previous trial, a jury awarded $420,000 to Evelyn and Jack Lewy in their lawsuit against Remington Arms Co. Inc. However, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the judgment because of an evidence problem.

On Friday, three men and three women jurors deliberated about an hour before returning awards of $50,000 actual damages and $75,000 punitive damages to Evelyn Lewy. The jury awarded $40,000 actual damages to Jack Lewy.

Two alternate jurors also heard the case, which opened two weeks ago in U.S. District Judge Russell G.

Clark's court.

"We're enormously pleased with the verdict," said William H. McDonald, one of the Lewy's attorneys.

However, McDonald said he did not think amount of damages reflects the harm and risk of gun, a 700 model 30.06 bolt-action rifle.

McDonald had asked the jury to give the Lewys about $3 million, including actual and punitive damages. The purpose of punitive damages is punishment or deterrence.

Jack Headley of Kansas City, one of Remington lawyers, declined to comment.

The Lewys' lawyers contended the rifle has a defect that causes the rifle to fire when the safety is pushed. The gun's safety mechanism must be switched from safe to fire before the gun can be unloaded, testimony indicated. The misfire allegedly happens intermittently.

Six killed in K.C. arson fire, police say

The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY — A predawn arson fire triggered by gasoline spread quickly to the second floor of an East Side house Friday and killed six people trapped in bedrooms, investigators said.

The victims of the arson fire included a teen-age mother and her 6-month-old son, whose bodies were found together in a bedroom closet, and an elderly woman who was confined to a wheelchair.

Two other children and an adult were killed. Two other occupants of the 2½-story frame house were hospitalized, one in serious condition with burns. Four other people fled without serious injury.

Neighbors speculated Friday that the fire might have been the result of a dispute between an occupant of the house and the operator of a drug house about a block away.

Sgt. Greg Mills, a police spokesman, said no motive had been established by Friday afternoon but acknowledged that the neighborhood dispute was one thing being probed by officers. He said 10 deaths were being investigated homicides.

"We're still evaluating different angles. The investigation has focused on any particular motive suspect," Mills said.

"Drugs could be involved in but if that's the case it's only one aspect of the feud," Mills said. "We're not in a position to say if these two events — the fire and feud — are related."
