We have discussed further with W. L. Clay the question of Extractor characteristic of Model 721 with respect to adaptability for military use. We explained to him how the many advantages appear to greatly outweigh any disadvantages, and especially placing emphasis upon results under adverse conditions. We also understand that he will arrange to forward to us a Cartridge Clip for use in making necessary alterations to accommodate clip loading in the sample rifle which you sent back to us yesterday.

We plan to discuss all of this further with Mr. Clay incidental to his next trip to Ilicon so that he will be in a better position to assist you. In event that you would like any further information before that time, please advise.
