Dear Tom:

LANYARD ATTACHMENT

Thank you for your memo concerning the support given to the XP-100 by the use of a lanyard attachment. As you probably know, I sent the lanyard to Les for his experimentation in the use of one of these items for a carrying or supporting device and he very successfully came up with an excellent idea. We are at the present time investigating this type of an attachment and if it proves successful as far as design is concerned we will recommend that Sales consider it for a Remington item. However, if this does not work out I suspect that Bushnell would be interested.

I will keep you advised. Thanks again for your memo and your suggestion.

Regards,
