Dear Mr. Pagett:

Mr. A. F. Kindzierski has asked if we could help you out in the way of furnishing a Model 660 action for purpose as described in your letter of February 25th.

As you probably know the factory does not normally supply barreled actions without barrels properly assembled and headed, for reasons of safety. However, we have in the past cooperated with certain projects involving experimental work, but with the definite understanding that Remington Arms Company cannot accept any responsibility in connection with the results in using this action when assembled into a rifle in a manner and with parts outside of our control.

We will arrange to have a Model 660 action shipped to you as requested, and as a courtesy would appreciate being subsequently advised as to the results.

Very truly yours,

S. M. Alvis, Manager
Ilion Research Division
