MODEL 700 - Caliber 25/06 "Varmint Special"

I talked with M. Walker about accuracy testing and ammunition on the above. This is with regard to question of whether or not the ammunition specifications and quality are good enough to support our 1½" rifle test specifications. Mike tells me that perhaps there may have been a little deterioration in the round as compared to our original results; however, he feels that we should wait a little longer before arriving at any conclusions, to make certain that we have our barrels right.

He described some "faults" he had observed in our early production run barrels that need to be corrected and would like to see some of our "latest" before we arrive at a conclusion.
