Thank you for your inquiry. We have a Safety Modification Program on certain model bolt action rifles which includes your Model 700, from the information provided our records indicate that your firearm was produced in or about 1971. We began producing the Model 700 in 1962. This is a voluntary program, it is not a recall. This is designed to remind people of the existence of the bolt-lock feature and to offer customers the opportunity to modernize their products.

You can read more information regarding our firearms and our Safety Modification program through the front page of our website or the link below:

http://www.remington.com/safety\_modification\_program/remington\_safety.htm

The safe use and performance of your firearm depends on correct assembly and routine maintenance, as well as adherence to the "10 Commandments of Firearm Safety." <http://www.remington.com/support/10comm.htm> It is critical that you familiarize yourself with the information in both the owners manual and safety booklet. Whether you are a veteran shooter with a collection of Remington firearms, or a first time shooter, take the time to review this important literature and be certain that you are practicing firearm safety!

Can you tell me in what year you introduced the Model 700 and about when my particular rifle (SR#6407495) was made? Are they still in production? Thank you.

Regards, Don Testa
