Dear Mr. Hollar:

Thank you for your inquiry. Remington considers all Remington firearms, including the Model 700 safe to us so long as you adhere to the "10 Commandments of Firearms Safety", keep it properly maintained and do not make inappropriate alterations. You can find the complete response that we forwarded to CBS regarding their broadcast on the front page of our website.

If you have any concerns regarding the safe functioning of your firearm we would be more than happy to help you get the firearm a safety check-up by a Remington Authorized Repair Center or our factory gunsmiths.

You can locate your nearest repair center by visiting the Repair Information Center in our Support Section and selecting your model and state:

I am somewhat concerned about the safety of my Model 700 rifle. I have heard lots of talk about this and now CBS did a news article on the problems with the accidental discharge. I have several Remington products and think highly of them all but I am concerned about the safety of this 700. What can I do to make sure this gun is as safe as the other firearms that I own? Remington should take a stand and help its loyal customers to know what the real truth is, not what the Remington business decision is. The story about rust and previously removed parts does not hold water with me, this is scape goat tactics that does not flush with this country boy. Do something!!!
