Dear Mr. Bowler,

The Model 600 rifles with the serial number beginning with the letter A were not included in the recall because the parts affecting the recalled firearms were taken care of in these rifles.

Well, half the questions got answered. Now, how come you folks didn't recall in 1979 those Remington 600 Mohawk rifles whose serial numbers begin with the letter "A"? Is it because those rifles were manufactured in 1980 after the 1979 recall? If that's the case, then is/are the safety problem(s) that necessitated the 1979 recall already fixed in the 1980 rifles? (I realize that per the Blue Book of Gun Values the years of mfg of the Model 600 were 1971 - 1979)

Thank you in advance for your help.
