

help, my gramps bought a model 600 6mm for my gramma in 1965 ish. it was give...

Discussion Thread

Response (Laura)

6/3/2002 3:11:13 PM

Dear Mr. Waite,

Thank you for your interest in our firearms. We appreciate your years of support and are glad to hear that your firearm has brought you many years of safe and successful hunts. Unfortunately we do not have enough demand for this caliber to offer it in many rifles. We do offer a number of short action calibers in the Model Seven rifles as well as our Model 700 rifles. You can find more detailed information regarding these models in the firearms/rifle section of our website.

Also, please note our important safety notice regarding these firearms through the front page of our website or through the link below:

http://www.remington.com/Safety_Modification_Program/600_660.htm

you did not include the serial number so we could not tell if your firearm has been included in the recall of some of these firearms.

Customer (michael waite)

6/1/2002 2:27:48 AM help, my gramps bought a model 600 6mm for my gramma in 1965 ish. it was given to me to use in 1978. i love this gun- period- end of story. i shoot it for mule deer, elk, and javelina s. i use the 100 grain pointed soft for all, and they work well. my son turns 10 this september, he will be able to go on his 1st hunt in february. for javelina s. i do not want to part with my 6mm, but because it's a short barrel- and real light- it fits him weel, except he s lefthanded, and it's righthanded. i cannot find a 6mm anything- anywhere, i saw a model 788 in 6mm at a used gun store, it was in bad shape- and the action was sloppy. i went to a new gun store (jensens arizona sportsman) here in tucson and they told me a bunch of bad news. you don't make 6mm's anymore, much less a lefthanded one- in any model. there is one that you call a varmint something, with a "heavy barrel" i do not know what that is, and it's very expensive to say the least. you don't make a compact model anymore, and nothing in 6mm. i also have my dad's model 760 gamemaster pump .308, plus a 30-06 closely related the the gamemaster. we only have remmington firearms, and they last so long we never have to buy new ones unless a new hunter comes along. but if you guys do not make the gun i want to buy for my son- one that will most surely last his lifetime, then i may have to consider another gun manufacturer, againt my choice. please reply to me soon, as i'm in need of you're help. thank you. michael waite c/o waite ranch tucson/marana, AZ