

Firing when deactivating safety

Discussion Thread

Response (KATHY)

12/1/2004 1:15:19 PM

Dear Dana, Thank you for visiting Remington Country. Please visit the following link for more information regarding your firearm:
http://www.remington.com/safety_modification_program/remington_safety.asp

Customer (Dana Sgrecci)

11/25/2004 12:43:22 PM

My beloved Rem. .270 has three times fired when disengaging the safety. The first time, I thought it was something I had done incorrectly. Since the first incidence, I took extreme caution when preparing to fire or ejecting cartridges; it rndomly did it a second time? The third scared me tremendously! I will no longer utilize the fire arm. There is something terribly wrong that a rifle would discharge in such a manner, under any circumstance. What can be done with it? I would like to return it to Remington Arms. It is not safe to use.
Dana Sgrecci
sgrecci9@aol.com