Thank you for visiting Remington Country!

The Remington Model 721 was produced from 1948 until 1961 in long action calibers only. The Model 722 was virtually an identical gun except it was chambered for short action calibers only and was in production at the same time. Both of these guns were replaced by the Remington Model 700 in 1963. According to the information that you provided, your Remington Model 721 was produced in or around 1950. These guns originally sold for around $79.95 and did not come with any sling swivels installed from the factory.

As with any used firearm, we would strongly recommend you have the firearm serviced and evaluated by a competent gunsmith for function and safety. We feel it is imperative you know the exact condition of your firearm prior to shooting. Please also read our "Guide to Buying a Used Gun" found through the link below:

If you are not aware of a gunsmith in your area, please feel free to contact one of our RARC's found in the Support/Repair section of our website or the following link:

If you will complete the form located in the What's New/Reading Room section of our website, we will forward to you a copy of the original owner's manual.

I have my grandfather's (who died in 1964) Remington Model 721 with #89512, can you tell me when you made the gun?

Thanks

Clay Morrow

P.S. I did download that Safety Modification Program, thanks for your concern.
