Thank you for your inquiry. The ISS bolt lock is not going to be offered on bolt action rifles any longer. We do not have a new internal lock planned at this time.

As a firearms dealer, we recently received a 700 from a distributor that did not have the bolt lock that you had been including the past few years. Instead, a flexible separate lock was included in the package. If a customer should for some reason want a 700 with the internal bolt lock, what should we tell him? Is the internal lock discontinued or is another type of internal lock planned any time soon?

Thank you.
