

...round. While trying to figure out what was wrong with my rifle, I pushed my Safety to the safety position without my gun being cocked. Then, ~~levered~~ levered the bolt and the gun cocked. When I flipped the safety off the firing pin dropped.
Had there been a round in the chamber it would have went off. I pulled the action out of the stock, to see if something obvious was wrong. I found nothing obvious.
When I put the ~~gun~~ action back in the stock the gun started working properly so I thought. I then placed a round in the gun. Knowing it might possible go off I secured the rifle against my leg with the barrel pointed up. ~~then~~ I then closed the bolt the gun went off.
