On Wednesday Nov. 29, 1989. While hunting I went to unload my rifle, I took the shells out of the clip and went to open the bolt to take the shell out of the chamber, but I forgot to switch the safe from safe to fire after pulling on the bolt I realized what I didn't do and I pushed the safe to fire and the rifle fired. It did it one other time last year, right after I bought it from my nephew, I thought maybe my finger touched the trigger. Today I did not touch the trigger.

On the afternoon of Nov. 29 I was loading my rifle, I had one knee on the ground and the other knee bent with the rifle layed over the knee, I only have a left hand. I lost my right hand 4 years ago in a farm accident. I put three shells in the chamber and when I closed the bolt, with the safe in the fire position, the shell fired. I know my finger did not touch the trigger.
