Dear Sirs:

I purchased a Model 700 Remington rifle, serial number C6504792 from the Sportman's here in Greenville. After the dealer mounted a scope on the rifle, I attempted to fire the rifle in order to adjust the scope.

On the second attempt to fire the weapon, the weapon discharged when the safety was moved from the safety position to fire position. This occurred again on the fifth attempt to fire the weapon. I was able to duplicate this without a cartridge in the chamber. I am today returning the rifle to the dealer and revoking acceptance of this weapon. This is an extremely serious defect in this rifle, and I am writing you to place you on notice that a defect of this nature exists in this weapon. There were two witnesses to this incident, both of whom can verify this event.

Sincerely yours,

L. Carl Hagwood
