To Whom It May Concern:

On the television program 60-Minutes, I viewed a segment on the Remington 700 and how some individuals have experienced the gun discharging prematurely. I have that model and have experienced the same problem. When the safety was pushed off, the gun discharged. Even though I have had this gun do this twice in the many years that I have owned it, it is still a safety hazard. Can the gun be repaired? If so, where? I would like to enjoy many more years of hunting with it safely.

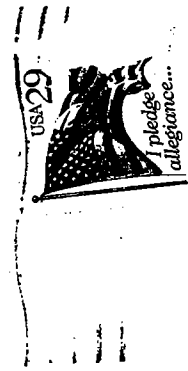

My gun is a Remington Model 700 30-06. The serial number is 6655701.

Sincerely,

James W. Massengale
