Dear Mr. Northan:

We are sorry to learn of the unfortunate incident that you experienced. I tried the phone number in your e-mail but no one answered.

We hope that the injury has completely healed, and that the therapy has you back to full capacity. We would like to examine the rifle to try to determine what might have been the cause of the incident. We will overnight a copy of this e-mail and an ARS label for you to return the firearm to my attention for examination. Once we have examined the rifle we will contact you to discuss our findings.

I am sure that working together we can reach a mutually satisfactory conclusion to this most unfortunate incident. Please feel free to contact me with any questions.
