

This is the 4th rifle that I heard of going off when injecting a shell. When the bolt flew back, it took the skin off the top of my finger. I didn't go to the hospital because I didn't want the state police involved in a gun accident. I should've had 2 or 3 stitches.

As an NRA member, gun collector & hunter, I don't think that the anti-gun lobbyists need more ammunition. I think Remington ought to have a recall on these guns. God forbid if anyone would get shot while emptying a gun.

Twenty-five dollars is a small price (as per operator) to have these rifles fixed.

Thank you,

Anthony Parra
