He shot enough rounds to zero it & didn't fire again until 5 yrs ago. He took it out & when he chambered the 1st round & closed the bolt the rifle fired. He chambered a 2nd round & it happened again. He put it back in a case & it has been there ever since. df

Dell,

I did receive the repair estimate today and I appreciate your help in this matter. I am a little skeptical about the assessment given by your technical people but I'm sure they know their business better than I. I intend to approve the quote and return payment this week; however, I still feel I did nothing to cause the rifle to malfunction as it did.

Regards, James W. Sease

Dear Mr. Sease,

Enclosed is a prepaid UPS shipping label to cover shipment of your firearm to our factory for examination and a form to fill out. A box will arrive separately.

Please include a copy of this letter and form to put inside the shipping container. The letter and form inside is important as sometimes the outside label gets damaged in transit and we want to be sure the firearm is logged in correctly. Mark the ends of the box with "Product Service". Product Service will be inspecting the firearm and will contact me with the results.

I hope that this action will keep you a loyal Remington customer.

Sincerely,

Attn: Quality Assurance/Regulatory Affairs

Dear Sir or Madam:

Three or four months ago I wrote you a letter concerning a problem I have with one of your rifles. Unfortunately, I have since bought a new computer and can't print a copy of the original letter and will have to give the whole story again.

In the early 1980's, I bought a cal. .308 model 788 rifle, SN 86082742. I put a scope on it, shot enough rounds to zero it and did not fire it again until about 5 years ago. (I normally hunt with my model 700.) My grandson was visiting and we were going hunting. I decided to use the Model 788 so I took it back to the range to sight it in again.

When I chambered the first round and closed the bolt, the rifle discharged. I checked the safety, etc. and chambered another round. The same thing happened. I put the rifle back in its case and it has been there ever since. I did, however, call Remington and reported the incident to a lady in Customer Service. She told me the model had been discontinued, there were no parts available and, basically, Remington would do nothing to help me.

When I read about reports of similar problems some people had with the Model 700, I decided to again try to get Remington to do something for me. Incidentally, I have two Model 700's and have had no problems with either of them.

I hope that Remington will take steps to make the rifle safe so I can use it or, at least, give me some kind of response. I am 72 years old and I can't imagine a worse legacy than to leave a defective and dangerous rifle for one of my grandsons to unknowingly try to use. It would be a much better solution for me to destroy the weapon; but if I have to do that, my opinion of Remington and its products won't be very good.

I look forward to hearing from you.
