Re: Faulty firing WITHOUT ASSISTANCE Remington Model 700 ADL SN# A6644670

Dear Sir.

I purchased this rifle in about 1978, for the express purpose of using it for hunting elk out west. That trip never took place so the rifle was never used or even fired. Now I have taken the woods for the purpose of firing the thing to see what it would shoot likelucky for me I was standing alone at the time. I placed a round of live amunition in the chamber closed the bolt and locked the safety on the trigger. As I approached the place I intended to shoot from - some 20 feet from me - I was holding the gun in a barrel up right hand on the grip and left hand on the forearm. I took just a minute to decide the direction of my shot - and the gun went off. - Scared the hell out of me! I loaded another shell and actively fire the gun - At the time I believed that the accidental firing may have been my fault somehow. After the second shot I put the gun away but I still felt insecure about what and how the gun had gone off when I was certain that I had locked the safety.

This continued to bother me for a couple of weeks so I pulled the gun out of the case racked the bolt - without any shells - in the living room of my home and just sat there. And guess what - the gun was just lying accross my chair - not being touched or handled and the gun fired — all by itself!. I called your company several times before anyone would believe me - they said they would send a box and pick authorization and retrieve the gun. I had the gun Magnaported right after I bought the gun so I am not really interested in an exchange - however - I do want the gun that I thought I bought - reliable and safe.

o sare.

If you have any questions please call me at 313 274 6600

I will be calling your company in 10 days to check on the process or repair work done to this gun

Respectfully,

Dr. Raymond Jones
