WANT TO SELL MORE "ROCKETS" AND "THUNDERBOLTS"? Here's The Key . . .

Dealers all over the country report "Rockets" and "Thunderbolt" 22 cartridges are selling like hot cakes. We checked with a number of dealers and here's what they say is the key to volume sales:

These new cartridges are "impulse buying" items — they sell on sight! The dispenser should be out in front on the counter to take advantage of store traffic. In other words, if your customers can see them — you'll sell them! If these cartridges are tucked away on a shelf, placed under the counter or otherwise obstructed from view, sales are lost. Every dealer who does a volume business with "Rockets" and "Thunderbolts" agrees that the place for these new cartridges is on the counter . . . that's where it counts. If you're not getting your share of this 22 business, try placing the dispenser where your customers can see the cartridges. Remember, if your customers can eye 'em . . . they'll buy 'em!

"Rockets" and "Thunderbolt" cartridges have a special composition, bullet that disintegrates upon impact with a steel backstop. Unique combination of properties in composition bullet gives the shooter a bullet with solid strength yet high fragility. These new cartridges have extra speed — over 1600 feet per second. They're fine for plinking as mid-range accuracy of cartridges is excellent.

The person who makes a dream come true hasn't been asleep.

NEW TEAM... REMINGTON MODEL 722 AND 244 REM. CARTRIDGE

Shooters have asked for a new center fire cartridge and rifle combination which would give them the same speed, accuracy and flat trajectory as the fast-selling 222 Remington medium range cartridge but in a larger, double-duty caliber . . . for extra long range and increased accuracy.

Remington research has answered this demand with the Remington Model 722 rifle, chambered and designed for the 244 Remington caliber extra long range center fire cartridge. The new cartridge is available in two top performance bullet weights — 75 grain and 90 grain Pointed Soft Point. Ballistic figures prove that the 75 grain varmint weight Pointed Soft Point bullet really begins to show off at those "way out" ranges. At 500 yards it delivers 55% more bullet energy than the 220 Swift, and with phenomenal accuracy! For larger game, such as deer and antelope, the 90 grain Pointed Soft Point bullet is remarkably effective for open long range shooting. Its tremendous speed and flat trajectory give the hunter a big advantage when squeezing off shots that have to cover long distances and still deliver knockdown wallop.

Model 722 rifle — 244 Remington Caliber. The new rifle that will give this new cartridge the send off it deserves is the Remington Model 722 in 244 Remington caliber, of course! From its crisp match trigger to its precision-bored special 26" barrel, the Remington bolt action, high power Model 722 meets all requirements for an accurate long range varmint and game combination.

The Model 722 rifle in 244 Remington caliber has the same specifications as the Model 722 in 222 Remington caliber now shown in our price list effective February 1, 1953, except for the magazine capacity of 4 and precision rifled special weight 26" barrel, chambered and designed for the new caliber. Suggested retail price, $69.95.

GROWING POTENTIAL MARKET FOR SPORTING FIREARMS AND AMMUNITION

Did you know that out of a total of 52,800,236 households in the United States, 17,500,000 are shooter-households? That 16,073,386 hunting licenses were issued in the last fiscal year?

And there are an estimated 5,000,000 additional shooters engaged in rifle, shooting, trap and skeet plinking, target shooting that do not require a license?

There is a potential market of approximately 21,000,000 shooters — and this figure is increasing yearly. There has been a 151% increase in the last 20 years. The sporting firearms and ammunition market is big and it can be a profitable one for dealers.

NEW RECORD SET FOR PUBLIC USE OF NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES IN 1954

National wildlife refuges continued to play an increasingly important part in the Nation's recreational picture during 1954, when a record-breaking total of 5,202,260 persons visited the areas, Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay announced.

This public use of refuge areas in 1954 represents an increase of approximately 11 percent over the 1953 record of 4,686,909 visitors.

Public waterfowl hunting was permitted on parts of 32 refuges in the United States; upland and big game hunting was allowed on parts of 23 others. This amounted to 361,366 visitor-days for all types of hunting.

In the broadest sense, these refuges make their greatest contribution to the Nation's recreation in the production and protection of wildlife, particularly migratory waterfowl. They insure the perpetuation of the sport of wildfowling for several million hunters. The more tangible contributions the refuges make to recreation are the facilities available for fishing, camping, boating, picnicking, photography, nature study, and related uses.

MOST POPULAR DUCK

A study of returns from banding operations carried out since 1939 by Ducks Unlimited in the three prairie provinces of Canada reveals the Mallard as "Mr. Smith" of the waterfowl world. Authorities agree he is the "dominant sporting species of North America ducks." It is believed the streamlined Pintail is the next most numerous, while a list of the other species in order of abundance might be as follows: Blue-winged Teal, Lesser Scaup, Shoveller, Baldpate, Canvasback, Green-winged Teal, Gadwall, Redhead, Ringneck, and Ruddy.
