H. J. HACKMAN

Tom Frye just called regarding difficulties in attempting to reload cartridges for his new M/600 in Caliber 222. As I understood him, it was shooting all right for accuracy and getting about one inch groups; however, when he attempts to resize the cases full length they still will not seat into the chamber of the rifle, although they work perfectly in his M/40X in the same caliber.

I told him this sounded like alignment to me, and would pass this information on to you folks, although believe aware of the difficulty. Tom feels that you will probably be getting a lot of complaints from those who have rifles this way.
