

	Remington 660	Winchester 670
ejection port length:	2.66"	3.11"
overall receiver length:	7.16"	9.25"

All other receiver characteristics on both guns are similar to those of the higher priced models discussed earlier.

Bolt

bolt body:	polished, not jeweled, black color left on front and rear portions	polished, not jeweled; color polished away from front and rear portions bolt handle:	half spherical knob, flat on bottom, longitudinally serrated, black oxidized knob and handle, dog leg bolt handle bent forward to position knob over trigger	same shape as on W770, grit blasted and black oxidized, dull non-reflective color (see photographs)
(bolt plug, R; (bolt sleeve, W;	streamlined, no projections, extends beyond cocked firing pin head, black oxidized	very similar to Remington, tapped hole for bolt sleeve cross pin (retains firing pin in bolt sleeve); firing pin sleeve projects beyond end when cocked, colored to match bolt handle bolt release:	toward left rear of receiver in bolt lug way	same as W770
utility	inferior <sup>3</sup>	same as W770