

REMINGTON ARMS COMPANY, INC.

MANUFACTURERS OF
SPORTING FIREARMS AMMUNITION

SPORTING APPARATUS TRAPS, IRON, NEW YORK

TRAPS

TARGETS

PETERS CARTRIDGE DIVISION

BRIDGEPORT, CONNECTICUT

BRIDGEPORT, CONNECTICUT

ONOKE, ARKANSAS

BRIDGEPORT, CONNECTICUT 06602

TARGETS, HINDLAY, OHIO

CABLE--HARTLEY, BRIDGEPORT

PDA, OKLAHOMA

ATHLETICS, GLENN

June 28, 1971

Mr. Ken Glanzer
202 S. 124th Street
Seattle, Washington 98168

Dear Ken:

Wayne Leek sent down some information on the XP-100 bench rest competition you've been having at the Puget Sound Bench Rest Club--including a new record by John Fry.

We've been aware of this competition and perhaps you could give us a bit more background on it.

How long has PSBRC been conducting XP-100 bench rest matches? What are the competitive rules, including regulations and restrictions pertaining to the gun itself? e.g.: such factors as barrel length, weight, scope regulations, etc. Details of typical modifications. When rebarreled are any XP-100's also rechambered, or do they remain 221's? Is the PSBRC the only club, to your knowledge, conducting such competition? Is there any chance this might become a recognized form of competition by NBRSA?

Any other details on the competition you might think pertinent would also be appreciated.

Best wishes,

RFD:JV

cc: Mr. Wayne Leek

Richard F. Dietz

Public Relations Division