Larry, enclosed is a copy of a letter to Neal Knox, Editor of HANDLOADER Magazine, from one of his readers. This fellow has one of the early Model 700s in 6mm caliber that had been marked on the barrel with a "6MM Remington Magnum" designation. As I recall, early in the game this had been the planned name for the 6mm caliber. A number of rifles must have been produced with this designation and this fellow happened to come into possession of one. Based on his serial number of 58465, can you let me know when the rifle was manufactured and how soon after the date of the first production of Model 700s in 6mm this occurred. early 1963

Thanks very much.

*first production of m/700 rifles
for 6mm was: Feb. 25, 1963.*
