

it on track. Dealers tell me that wouldn't sell a 600 to no one. I'm gonna sell this one to someone because this past November, the only time I was out hunting last year, it fired while resting across my lap while I was in my deer stand, my hunting buddy had just stopped out of its path, and I stood all the way home. That was the last time I used Chambers a round in it. I don't want it "fixed" because I can't look at it and tell that is fixed. It looks real nice, metal work is just like it was when I bought it. Some stock dings. If you are interested in my trading it back to you on a mod. I'll let me know. Dealers told me that it is Remington design error and that is not my fault. If you aren't interested let me know and I'll sell it to someone, as is - in some other state. I wouldn't sell it to anyone in this area.

Kind regards
 Campbell
