I did some research on this awhile back, the modification to the safety only enabled it to be left on "Safe" to open the bolt. In pre-82 700s, you had to place the safety on "Fire" to open the bolt. The modification did not change the basic design of the safety.

That and the $15,000,000 Remington has paid out in lawsuits over the 700 rifle, persuaded our chief to pony up the bucks for AIs.

PS: I fully expect to join Doc and Gunn-e in the "flamed" crowd over this...
