Sirs,

J.A. STEKL

I own a Remington Model 700 ADL, Serial #A6343780. I bought it new. About three years later, while unloading an unfired round, it discharged for no apparent reason. The habits of safe shooting allowed only my hip to get injured. Knowing that the gun had a mind of its own I retired it to the safe.

I was recently told that there was a recall on this model, consisting of a new safety assembly which allows the bolt to be opened with the safety on. If this is so, I would like information on how to have this recall performed. If possible, I would prefer to install it myself or have it done by a qualified gunsmith in my area. I do not want to send it through the mail do to the possibility of it getting lost. It has sentimental value, being the first hunting rifle I bought.
