I recently purchased a Remington-Union Model 700 rifle. I find this feature to be interesting to the point of not wanting to hunt with this rifle. If you have ever handled these the Model 700 on Kodiak Island and know the hand catch (to bolt, stop it open and the cartridge fly out, you will appreciate what I'm talking about.

I got quite over it was adopted as a customer safety measure, but with a Brownie Ben at Chase Quarter and the legends to your health if the bolt is not in the locked down position. The bolt of the Model 700 is a my rifle is a left hand model 700. Please advise me to cost or send C.O.
