ARMS SERVICE

I have always liked a bolt action where the action locks down when on safety. This is just a personal preference that I like. Since I feel safer that the bolt can not be accidentally moved or tripped open. I like your Mountain rifle but the bolt does not lock down therefore I have not bought it. Can this action be modified so it can lock down? If so at what cost? Why don't you make the action to lock down in the first place?
