J.A. STEKL

I have been a die hard Remington Man, both in shotguns & rifles. I think that Remington has ruined the Model 700 rifle because of the new non locking bolt with the safety. I would not buy a Remington 700 rifle now that they do not have a locking bolt.

Winchester is the hands down favorite in this whole North West Ohio, western P.A. & W. Va. because of this "ruined" 700. The only place that is selling them are the discount stores. The gun dealers & gunsmiths in this entire area don't even want to be bothered with the Remington line, because gunsmiths must order entire triggers, instead of being able to get certain parts. I fear one will not buy a non-locking bolt rifle of any make!

I truly believe the Remington
