Sir:

I am writing in regard to a problem with the safety on a Remington Model 700 BDH 270 cal. I purchased this rifle 5 years ago, this past Deer season I noticed you can move the safety easily to the "safe" position, but you can't move it to the "fire" position. The gun has not been abused and is only used one week a year. I have cleaned it, oiled it, but nothing has helped it. I don't know if it is a problem with the detent ball or spring. I would appreciate if you could tell me how to fix it or a dealer in my area who can.

This gun has gone off before accidentally when the safety was put to the fire position and not touching the trigger. You can touch the trigger with the safety on safe and when you get it to the fire position it has went off accidentally and shot a hole through the floor board of my sons truck.
