Dear Remington Arms Representative,

In late November of 1978, a lady in your office whom I talked to about the enclosed rifle, advised me to send the rifle to you with a letter explaining what had happened.

I had been deer hunting and had returned to camp with the rifle beside me on the seat with the barrel pointing to the floor. I reached down to take it off of safety to unload it, and the rifle discharged, shooting a hole through the floor of the pickup.

I decided to wait until after the holidays to send the rifle in because of the heavy mail load.

Sincerely,
