

examination of this modification had I had a spare to use in my preparation for this summer's competition. As nice as it would be, I'm afraid that spare XR100s are a luxury that I can't presently afford. However, I feel that I have described the modification in sufficient detail for you to repeat it at the factory. It is my opinion that this modification would significantly improve the design safety of your product and potentially could aid in averting a shooting accident— which is in Remington's best interest.

It has been my pleasure to share the foregoing with you and I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Bruce Barber