Dear Remington,

I bought my son a new Remington hunting rifle last fall. In using the rifle we found that you could open the bolt with the safety still on. I think I understand why you changed to this new feature. However, I and my son don't like this new feature. In carrying the rifle and changing shoulders, my son had the bolt pop up and slide open thus losing the shell in the snow.

Question: If we send the rifle back to you would you put an old style safety on it? If so, I need to know the procedure and the cost.

I also own a Remington 7mm mag. and it has the old style safety. (about 9 years old)

my son's gun is a 243 win.
