11/17/10 Per email sent to Remington.com, incid #101106-000058, "i purchased a model 700 bdl 7mm Short Action Ultra Mag in 2002 from bass pro shops. Today, Nov 6th 2010 i was attempting to "sight-in" the rifle. I placed one cartridge in the chamber and when i flipped the saftley from the Safe to Fire the gun discharged. I thought i may have bumped the trigger so i decided to try it again making sure nothing was around the trigger and the gun discharged again and another time after that. Being as 7mmSAUM rounds are not cheap i decided to stop at that and not press my luck any further. So my question is, how do i go about getting this fixed? The gun is a few years old but has only had maybe 40 rounds run though it for sighting in and hunting over the last few years".cm

Mr. Morgan, I apologize for the delay in responding. I can send you a prepaid shipping label for shipment to the factory for a free inspection. Please let me know what address to mail it to and the address the rifle should ship back to as well as the serial number.

To whom it may concern,

i purchased a model 700 bdl 7mm Short Action Ultra Mag in 2002 from bass pro shops. Today, Nov 6th 2010 i was attempting to "sight-in" the rifle. I placed one cartridge in the chamber and when i flipped the safety from the Safe to Fire the gun discharged. I thought i may have bumped the trigger so i decided to try it again making sure nothing was around the trigger and the gun discharged again and another time after that. Being as 7mmSAUM rounds are not cheap i decided to stop at that and not press my luck any further. So my question is, how do i go about getting this fixed? The gun is a few years old but has only had maybe 40 rounds run though it for sighting in and hunting over the last few years. If i need to ship the to remington where exactly do i ship it to and will i be able to ship it or will i need to take it to an authorized shop?

Thank you!

Scott Morgan
