12/7/10 Per email sent to Remington.com, incid # 101126-000039, "I have a model 700 BDL, (serial no. 196760) that has always been unsafe to use because it will discharge sometime when you lift the bolt handle to empty the chamber. I was told by a gunsmith to let him put a Canjar trigger trigger in it and it seemed to work fine, but has again begun to be unpredictable when letting the safety off to the fire position. Does Remington have a fix for this? The gunsmith who installed the Canjar trigger is decesed and I would like to get this issue resolved."cm

Mr. Vannoy, I apologize for the delay in responding. We can inspect the rifle at the factory. If you would like to send it, let me know what address you would like a UPS ground shipping label mailed to and we will contact you after inspection regarding the findings.

Sincerely,
Christy Mitchell

Comments:

I have a model 700 BDL, (serial no. 196760) that has always been unsafe to use because it will discharge sometime when you lift the bolt handle to empty the chamber. I was told by a gunsmith to let him put a Canjar trigger trigger in it and it seemed to work fine, but has again begun to be unpredictable when letting the safety off to the fire position. Does Remington have a fix for this? The gunsmith who installed the Canjar trigger is deceased and I would like to get this issue resolved.
