M/700 NEW HIGH POWER BOLT ACTION RIFLE SERIES
SPECIFICATIONS

In Gail Evans' absence I have your letter of February 10.

We agree that the majority of bolt action guns are eventually scope-mounted but believe there is still a group that prefer open sights. Also open sights enable the potential purchaser at the gun counter to sight and handle the rifle.

Bill Foster is polling the field on this and we should have an answer for you before too long.

Note to W.H. Foster Shouldn't this apply to varmint calibers only? Suggest we check field.
