visited with Mr. Charles Wright the gunsmith Joe Daniel was not there. ~~the~~ the shop owner was with us when we went over the invoices for the return forms. one gun had been repaired but not sent out. Trigger assembly free in action but stocks & screw needed attention. Have some VP100 pistols. Customers do not want them sent in to factory. I asked that they follow up work & send in to Dept & explain customer's request. will check again with customer to see if they will allow pistols to be sent in.

Saw Hugh R. Barrows gunsmith who had repaired 5 guns & returned. He had received 5 more trigger assemblies, no guns on hand. Went thru explanation of installation of trigger assembly in action and stock. He had not checked stock clearance but said triggers and safeties were clear. Asked ~~him~~ ^{me} if he could get guns back & check stock clearance as most stocks require some clearance. Had changed set back one rifle with A prefix. Explained proper way to fill out forms and that A & B prefix were not included in recall. Had seen that did not want $P100 sent back to factory, also had customer that claimed Barrow told him he would get new rifle when he called about recall.

Had a M600 to repair extractor. Customer did not want trigger assembly changed now. Present one worked fine & hunting season coming up was worried one might not work as well. Will bring gun back for change later on. 2 price was reasonable. Mr. Hice had sent in gun from to Dept. & went over check points & found everything in order clear points.

Spoke to Mr. Kenneth Campbell owner & gunsmith and his son. He had changed the assemblies on 3 rifles. He had another one that we changed and went over the joints we asked to check for clearance. The screws needed bending and the stock needed work removed in the safety area and on top beneath the safety button. Stock started in 1822 by Todd who sold to his gunsmith and Mr. Campbell married his daughter and took over when he retired.

Fred's Gun Shop

Spoke with Mr. Musbaum & his wife and went over the forms to be filled out. Had changed one trigger assembly and returned to customer. Went over the program and he will run and have rifle returned to check for clearance of stock. Had call from customer while there. Customer was saying the rifle won't have been doing thing he could & it would not fire accidentally. Received good description. Have many customers come into shop while I was there. Mr. Musbaum seemed to be a very competent gunsmith.
