

26

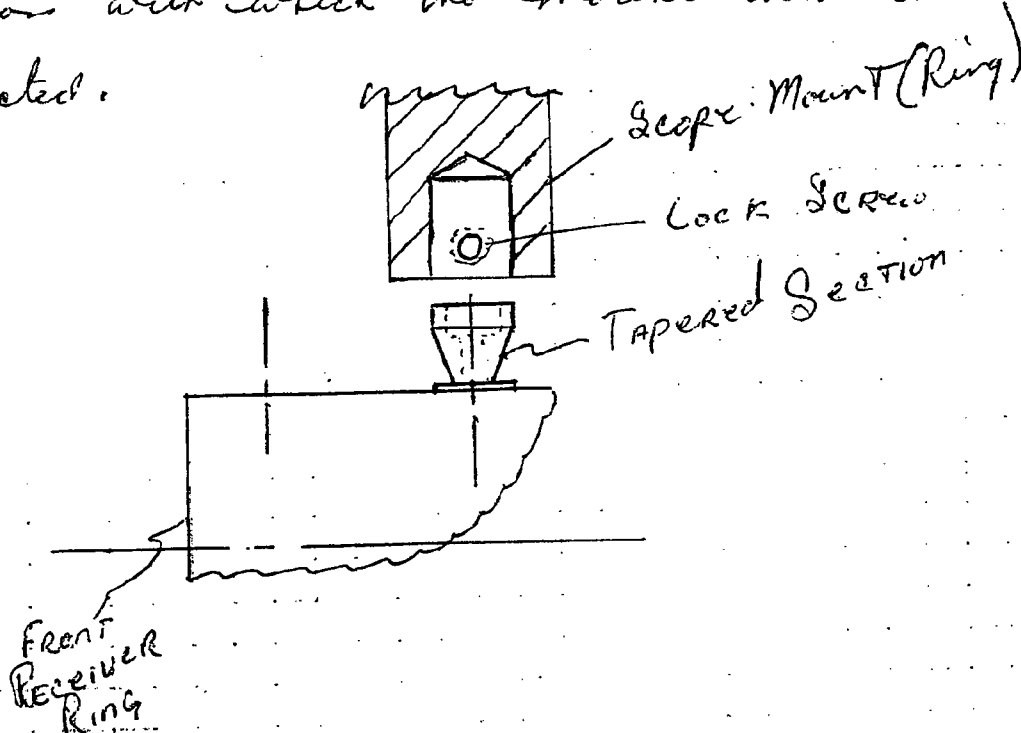

DATE

SUBJECT OF EXPT.

Aug 21, 81
Scope Mount (Continued)

A scope mount system that uses a mounting bushing instead of a mounting block was developed for use on the M-700 Bolt Action Rifle.

The bushing was formed with a tapered section with which the mount lock screw contacted.

Bushing was countersunk for mounting screw and could be mounted in any of the four scope screw holes on the receiver to facilitate the use of a variety of scopes.

EXPERIMENTER

Fred C. Martin

DATE

8-31-81

WITNESS

G.R. Eddy

DATE

8/16/81