

Business Outlook For 2001

- Trade inventories of Remington long guns will provide positive momentum for most of next year.
- November election results are likely to create another run on firearms and ammunition products.
- Industry and trade consolidation will continue at an accelerated pace.
- Additional government regulation of the industry, its trade channels and its end users are highly probable.